Comic Legend Allen Bellman is on the World Wide Web

Tamarac, Fla. – Legend to many in the comic book industry, Allen Bellman can finally be seen online.

Bellman's site, www.allenbellman.com, features samples of his work, his personal appearances, photographs, a biography, and what he's doing now.

The Manhattan-native was a Timely staff artist during the Golden Age of comics. In 1942, he drew the backgrounds for Syd Shores' Captain America. He went on to work on other books including: The Patriot, The Destroyer, The Human Torch, Jap Buster Johnson and Jet Dixon of the Space Squadran, All Winners Comics, Marvel Mystery, Sub Mariner Comics and Young Allies.

Today, Bellman lives in Tamarac, Fla., with his wife, Roz. And, although he is now retired from the industry, he still appears at comic book conventions, and is still available for commissions. He also has taken on another art form – photography.

“My original commissions are available at an affordable price, so that anyone that wants to have one, can have one,” Bellman said.

For more information on Allen Bellman, what he's doing now, or how to reach him for a commission piece, visit www.allenbellman.com, or e-mail him at allen@allenbellman.com.
